

MAURITIUS: A STRATEGIC MARITIME HUB

Port-Louis, the Capital of Mauritius, sits at a strategic hub where trade routes from Africa, Asia, Australia and South America all converge.

The government's efforts to foster the development of a Marine Services Platform would prioritize expanding bunkering services and other industries that support the shipping industry, including ship chandling, ship repairs and maintenance, personnel exchanges, and ship leasing.

The liberalization of the bunker trade will reduce the cost of bunker fuel in Port-Louis, which will encourage investment in the bunkering and oil storage sectors.

The Mauritius Ports Authority is providing financial incentives to ships stopping in Port-Louis for refueling, repairs, crew changes and bunkering as a part of this effort.
